GERMANY LEADS IN EUROPE

By Donald Forbush.

This and subsequent articles will tell something of the real conditions of today in some European countries, some of which are filled with terror, as in Italy; some of which are not so bad. These articles are signed by Donald Forbush, which is not the real name of the writer, who is a trained newspaper man and who knows his economics and labor conditions. "If I ever signed my real name, I could not re-enter Italy, nor could I re-enter some other European countries from which I hope to do further reporting for the enlightenment of Americans," he said. Those who have read George Seldes' amazing book, "You Can't Print That," will agree that this writer is wise in hiding his identity. However, International Labor News Service vouches for the genuineness of the work and for the bona fides of the author.—Editor, International Labor News Service.

You can't—as they used to say more often than they do now—keep a good man down. Neither can you keep a strong, virile nation from asserting itself in the world, however much you try to load it down with economic chains. Germany periodically astounds the world with some new evidence of its genius—now it is the Graf Zeppelin, now the Bremen, now some new and bigger airplane that makes faster time and carries more passengers than its competitors.

For years Germany has rebelled against the accusation of war guilt. For years it has been hampered by uncertainty as to the future, by the demands of the Allies for reparations payments, by all manner of devices calculated to hobble the German people economically and to give the other nations of Europe greater commercial and industrial opportunities. But you can't keep Germany down. Blocked in one direction, the Germans have the enterprise and the ingenuity to find other means of self-expression, other opportunities to expand.

The greatest problem the German people have had to face, probably, was that of the reparations. It seemed evident that France wanted to keep Germany in subjection as long as possible. The Germans wanted principally to know what they were expected to pay; anything humanly possible and not stretching out through all eternity they were disposed to accept. But until very recently it was not possible to dispel this uncertainty. Now that it has ended, the psychological effect should be excellent, and it will be surprising if Germany is not heard from even more notably than has been the case up to now.

Under the Young plan, reparations payments will be completed in 1979, and withdrawal of the Allied troops occupying the Rhine bridgeheads will shortly be under way.

The German railroads and other industries will pay the sums the Allies demand. It is a coincidence, perhaps, that the period of the reparations payments is almost exactly the same as that during which the Allied powers are paying their debts to Uncle Sam.

But despite uncertainty, despite all the handicaps imposed, Germany's leadership in Europe is almost as secure as it was before the war. From Berlin, 70 cities in Germany and 30 or more outside are reached by airplane services. The first plane to leave the great Tempelhof field departs for Moscow at about 4 o'clock in the morning. Thereafter, they operate in and out as regularly as train services in this country, and with no more fuss about it.

The Germans are thorough, and that is probably why German planes are the safest and best operated in Europe. Accidents are practically unheard of. Tri-motor planes are the rule on passenger services, and the Luft-Hansa, generally accepted as the model for all air transport, is now contemplating trans-Atlantic service with a machine of massive proportions.

The German railroads have long held an enviable position in Europe, and now the airplane lines rank equally high. We have had the opportunity in the last few weeks to see what German shipbuilders can do. The Bremen returned to Europe with every berth filled—a remarkable testimonial on the part of America to German achievement.

The German people are working hard, working long hours and for small pay, but they are not afraid of sacrifice. That, indeed, they demonstrated even more conclusively during the war. Their affection apparently was not for the Kaiser, nor is it now for the Hindenburg government in particular, though the old marshal is tremendously popular. Rather, it is an affection for Germany itself, which they tend to personify until it becomes as real to them as the great Germania statue that overlooks the Rhine.

Labor conditions in Germany are not what they ought to be, but they compare favorably with the rest of Europe.

Indeed, working conditions will not be completely normal, perhaps, for some years, and employees and employers have both made concessions in the interest of enabling the government to meet the reparations demands. The Communists, of course, found ample excuse to create disturbances on May Day, and many buildings are marked with bullet holes as a result. But the opposition to the government is not great, either from Left or Right, and now that the chief factor in the situation has been cleared up, it will probably be less marked in the future.

MY FOLKS.

By Anne Porter Johnson.

I think my folks are very queer—
You'd be surprised at things I hear.
Sometimes it seems I'm very small,
And then again I'm big and tall.

At night I tease to stay up late,
But mother says: "No, no, it's eight.
Go right upstairs, and hurry, too!
Indeed, a little boy like you!"

At six next morning from the hall
She wakes me with this funny call:
"Come, come, get up, and hurry, too!
For shame, a great big boy like you!"

When through the night I grow so fast,
How very strange it doesn't last!
I shrink and shrink till eight, and then
I'm just a little boy again.

Theories are all right in their place, but continual practice of employing union workers through our power of purchase is what makes for success.

ADMISSION DAY FETE AT SANTA CRUZ.

Joint committees of the San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons and Daughters are meeting every Friday night, perfecting plans for the celebration of the 79th anniversary of California's admission into the sisterhood of states. The general celebration will be held at Santa Cruz for three days, beginning September 7th, and Grand Marshal Arthur Cleu of Oakland announces that Parlors from all portions of the State have responded and will be in attendance, and the colorful pageant on Monday, September 9th, promises to surpass all previous occasions. The San Francisco County Parlors will hold a reception at the Casino and an orchestra will provide music for dancing.

The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco will co-operate with the committees and will enter an elaborate floral float in competition for first prize, and have authorized the Municipal Band to take part in the pageant. Detachments of firemen and policemen will also be in the line of March.

It is expected that Mayor James Rolph, Jr., will issue his usual proclamation urging the closing of stores in honor of our State's natal day.

A special rate of $2.50, round trip, has been secured from the railroad and tickets will be honored from September 7th to September 12th, inclusive.

When you purchase union label goods you help a fellow unionist.

TRADE UNION PROMOTIONAL LEAGUE.

The regular meeting of the Trade Union Promotional League was held in Mechanics' Hall, Labor Temple, Wednesday, August 7, 1929.

The meeting was called to order at 8 p. m. by President A. V. Williams and on roll call the following were noted absent: J. P. Hale and J. C. Willis.

Credentials—Carpenters' Union No. 483, Brother S. J. Brown, whose credential had been on file, was present tonight and was seated.

Minutes of meeting held July 17th were approved as read.

Communications—Ladies' Auxiliary of League minutes, read and filed. Building Trades Council minutes, noted and filed. Union Label Trades Department, requesting co-operation on the union label, shop card and working button campaign, same to be held from August 19th to September 2nd; filed; the Secretary stated he had already given Secretary Manning that information. Photo-Engravers' Union No. 8, giving an outline of their side of the strike controversy; filed. Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, stating they are sending a package of agitation literature; filed; Secretary stated that same had been received. Emerson Pen & Pencil Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., stating their product is strictly union made; filed. Anyone desiring these fountain pens and pencils can get the information from the Secretary.

Bills—Referred to Trustees; same ordered paid.

Report of Secretary—Reports progress on the label exhibit for October 7th. States he is sending the pictures from the Women's Bureau back as there seems to be no demand to show them. Assisted the Garment Workers and the Shoe Clerks. Recommends a meeting of the Agitation Committee to make the necessary arrangements for Labor Day. The Labor Day Committee has again given the League the use of a booth at the picnic park.

Reports of Unions—Waiters' Union reports that the Emporium Bakery, Ellis and Jones streets, is now fair and displays a union house card. Typographical Union reports that the union label has been granted to the Benham Printing Co., 38 Davis street, and to Sam Goodman, 340 Sansome street; just issued a new list of union and non-union magazines and periodicals; request the support of members of the Native Sons of the Golden West in organizing the Grizzly Bear, a publication used by that organization and printed in Los Angeles. Garment Workers' Union No. 131 states it is putting on a label campaign at present in visiting all union meetings; work fair on pants and shirts. Bill Posters say all members are working. Shoe Clerks state business is good, but no demand for label shoes or the Clerks' button; that Feltman & Curme, Austin and Steinberg are unfair to them. Carpenters No. 483 report a slowing up of work at present. Sign Painters say it is quiet. Carpet Mechanics all working except those sick. Garment Cutters report that the non-union shops are far more busy than the union shops because there is no demand for the union label. Cigarmakers report things quiet; not opposed to machine-made cigars, but are to Chinese made products, and the only protection any one has against Chinese made cigars is to look for their blue union label. Molders report all members working; men coming in from other cities; the Wedgewood, Spark and Occidental stoves are union made. Millmen report placing the union label on work sent out of town; work is slow. Stereotypers, Steamfitters and Elevator Constructors say it is fair. Operating Engineers No. 64 state all members working that are registered. Grocery Clerks ask you not to patronize the larger chain stores. Office Employees' Union not satisfied with standardized salaries submitted. Cracker Bakers report business bad; will furnish a display for Labor Day. Ladies' Auxiliary of League report members doing good work and asks the League to address a letter to Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight on home industry; Secretary to comply with request.

Good and Welfare—Agitation Committee will meet next meeting, August 21st. The pictures, "The Woman Worker, Past and Present" and "The Imp of Swaziland," were shown. The League meeting is opening and all are welcome to come.

Receipts—$129.55. Bills, Paid—$151.75.

Adjournment—Meeting adjourned at 9:10 p. m., to meet again August 21st.

"Buy something between August 19th and September 2nd and demand the union label, card and button. Union Label Trades Department's campaign."

Fraternally submitted,
W. G. DESEPTE, Secretary.

NEW VIEWPOINTS SLOWLY ACCEPTED.

The management of a large oil-producing corporation denies that they contemplate a price war. "We do not favor price-cutting, for it is uneconomic," these business men truthfully declare. But note the different attitude when wage workers organize to check the same uneconomic practice. Then we must listen to lectures on the "law of supply and demand," and "conspiracies that interfere with interstate commerce." The reason for this two-sided position is apparent to any observing person, but organized labor must continually agitate and educate to weaken the foundation of profitable prejudice. To change a fixed belief is never easy, for the will has to be persuaded as well as the understanding. Every entrenched and prosperous abuse resists change that will only yield to persistent protest and agitation.

The afterthought of failure to buy union-labeled goods is that it wouldn't happen if you had another chance. Remember this the next time you spend money.

BY THE WAY.

Consider the question of injunctions. We have one in New Orleans and we have one in Cleveland. The daily newspapers of the country have had little to say about the one in New Orleans; much to say about the one in Cleveland. The one in New Orleans was against a union of street car men; the one in Cleveland against two newspaper editors. One gores the working men; the other gores the newspaper ox.

As usual, it makes a difference. In both cases there have been arrests for contempt and sentences have been passed by the judge who issued the injunction. In New Orleans a working man said, "Damn the injunction." The judge said, "Thirty days." In Cleveland the editors printed a heated editorial—a rip snorter, denouncing the judge. The judge said "six" months and a fine. Editors all over the country have protested vigorously—an American can be proud of the way they have spoken out against the Cleveland injunction. But the same Americans can wonder what has tied their tongues about the New Orleans injunction, in which the very same principle is involved, but which only causes working people to suffer.

The mistress of the household represents the "purchasing power." She cannot go on a strike, but she can obviate the necessity of striking by demanding the union label.

"RUN O' THE HOOK"

Edited by the President of San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21. Members are requested to forward news items to Rm. 604, 16 First Street, San Francisco.

At the regular monthly meeting of No. 21 held last Sunday a total membership of 1494 was reported. Applications for membership by F. W. Black, R. K. Cook, C. J. Haluska, Jr., J. I. Kelly and S. K. Morrow were read. Initiated as journeymen members were L. L. Bonavia, William Salomon and G. A. Sparks. Initiated as apprentice members were P. L. Brazelton, J. J. McCoy, J. G. Jacklich and F. X. Lowe. J. I. Kelly was presented with a diploma from the I. T. U. signifying completion of the course of lessons in printing. Several vacancies in elective offices existing, the following members were nominated and elected to the offices mentioned: Auditing Committee, R. E. Trickle; Delegate to Allied Printing Trades Council, A. G. Neilson; Delegate to Labor Council, C. K. Couse; Delegates to California Typographical Conference, C. M. Baker and C. K. Couse. Following the election of the delegates to the California State Federation of Labor the following motion was unanimously adopted: "That our delegates to the California State Federation of Labor be instructed to introduce, work for, and vote for a change in the constitution in regard to the manner of electing district vice-presidents in that body and recommend that candidates for district vice-presidents must bear credentials from the districts they are nominated for and be elected solely by the votes of the delegates for their respective districts. Each district will elect its own vice-president or president."

It is expected that specimens of label work from San Francisco will be among the finest in the exhibit of fine printing held in conjunction with the convention in Seattle, and the writer of these notes desires to express appreciation to the many members of No. 21 who have assisted in gathering the material to be used in this exhibit.

Friends of Charles Crook, the rotund and popular member of the Stereotypers' Union, will learn with pleasure that he has received appointment as Deputy Labor Commissioner and is in charge of the Stockton office of that body.

The following item is from the Los Angeles Citizen of August 16th: "His many former friends were sorry to learn of the passing in Kansas City last week of one of the men of the craft who had long been an earnest and sincere worker in the cause, in the person of George A. Millar, who had been secretary-treasurer of his home union, No. 80, for the past five years or more, and prior to that, holding other executive positions with credit to the organization. He was 52 years of age, and for 32 years had been a member of the Kansas City local, joining when he was 20. In addition to his wife, he left several brothers and a sister to regret his death."

Charles A. Derry, delegate to the Seattle Convention, leaves on Saturday, August 24th, for Seattle. Mr. Derry will be accompanied by Mrs. Derry, and they expect to take about ten days for the trip, visiting friends en route.

Charles Wolf, chairman of the James H. Barry chapel, left this week for a six weeks' vacation in the northwest. While away Mr. Wolf will be a visitor at the 74th Convention of the International Typographical Union.

A. G. Neilson, delegate from No. 21 to the Seattle convention, sails on one of the Alexander boats on Tuesday, August 27th.

Three of San Franciscos delegates of this year have been delegates to former conventions. A. F. Moore was a delegate to San Francisco's convention from Seattle Union; C. C. Dye was a delegate to the 1911 meeting held in this city, from Springfield, Ill.; Charles A. Derry was a delegate to the Birmingham convention held in 1901.

"Tom" Black, chairman of the Examiner chapel, will sail on the 31st of August to attend the convention in Seattle.

George H. Knell left on Saturday of last week for Colorado Springs where he is this week attending a meeting of the board of trustees of the Union Printers Home. Mr. Knell expects to return to this city, and will then make the trip to Seattle by automobile.

The committee to hear the charges preferred against a member will meet at union headquarters on Monday, August 26th, at 6:30 p. m. All members of the committee are requested to be present.

The writer was this week informed that a press had been purchased by parties who are considering the establishment of a financial daily in San Francisco. The information was received from reliable sources, and while no definite date for the beginning of operations has been set it is believed that the International Union and the work of union printers. In connection with the border and angle designs being done by members of the ad force in this chapel for this display, it has been made possible to have a more extensive range of borders than is ordinarily carried in a newspaper composing room and it was through the courtesy of the Linotype Company that a large and varied border display is possible. Those connected with the border work for this exhibit in the chapel wish to thank the company for their co-operation.

Somewhere and sometime it was remarked that "music hath charm," but lend an eye to this: "Sparky" Landers scouted the large and small radio stores for a set that measured to his exacting requirements. After much searching he found the desired set. It was finally delivered to his apartment. Now, his landlord seemed to have other views concerning the class of music that is broadcast, for he did not take kindly to "Sparky's" set; in fact, he told him so in so many words and invited Mr. Landers to seek apartments elsewhere. Mr. Landers moved and is now located where the music from his set is appreciated.

We understand that Claude Maxwell is about to submit to the public at large something new in the reducing of weight that has the 18-day Hollywood Diet backed off the face of the globe. In part, it consists of getting up early, say around six in the morning, procuring plenty of window cloths and window cleaner. After cleaning several windows, if your weight has not been reduced considerably then you had better see a doctor or stay fat. Mr. Maxwell says that he can almost guarantee this. He should know, he has tried it several times.

When that famous Scot, Harry Lauder, arrived last week on his so-and-so farewell tour, our popular Scottish proofreader was at the pier to greet him. Mr. Waterson denies, with much force, that he is to join Lauder in an effort to continue searching for the nickel that was lost by some canny son of the land of the thistle and which resulted in what is now the Grand Canyon of Colorado.

Dan O'Connell cut short his vacation so that he could return and help Arthur Nelson, Swedish apprentice boy, with his I. T. U. lessons. However, if Gallagher is to be believed, Dan hastened back to continue kidding Sullivan, the makeup man. Dan returned to work after having spent a most enjoyable vacation at Harbin Hot Springs.

J. D. O'Brien, the roving Irishman, together with his family, returned to town last week after considerable traveling around the Eastern United States and Canada. "O. B." is still convinced that California is a most wonderful state and San Francisco is just about as near perfection as could be. However, we are glad to have O'Brien with us again.

For after-vacation reading the current issue of the Typographical Journal is recommended. It contains some very important facts and everyone should read it. The reports of the officers and representatives are especially interesting. Take a little time out and read it. It is worthwhile.

William Salomon has graduated into the ranks of the journeymen. Bill was obligated into the Union Sunday and has slipped up on the makeup side. We hope and wish to him every success in the future. "Bud" Campbell was elevated to an apprenticeship.

E. J. Pilcher has joined the ranks of the land owner. "E. J." acquired a lot in White Oaks and is now pleasantly waiting for an advance in price so he can make a little. Why not build a radio station or a receiving station on your lot, Pilcher?

Mr. Maxwell drew the attention of the writer to the fact that a mistake was made in the story of last week regarding union dues of 1912 and 1913. We stand corrected: they were considerably more than $1.50 a month.

Postcard from Henry Coxon to Chairman McKnight reveals that Henry is, or was, at Camp Curry. The card further tells of a fast trip of six hours and forty minutes to the Camp—believe it or not.

MAILER NOTES. By Leroy C. Smith.

Judging from the mass of interesting matter in the August Typographical Journal—President Howard's letter in particular—which should be read by every member, the Seattle convention of the Typographical Union promises to be one of the most important in its entire history.

Accompanied by his mother, the writer, No. 18's delegate to the International Typographical Union convention, Seattle, will leave for the Puget Sound metropolis in the family Ford about August 30th.

The principal business transacted at our August union meeting pertained to scale negotiations. In a comprehensive manner, President Christie, as secretary of the scale committee, reviewed negotiations to date, with the committee's recommendations, which were unanimously adopted. Arbitration proceedings, affecting scale of wages only, will be begun at an early date before a board composed of three members, one representing the mailers, one the publishers, the third member to be chosen by mutual agreement. H. I. Melnikow, of the Labor Bureau, Ltd., will act as counsel for No. 18.

A. Fineburg is visiting with relatives in Los Angeles. L. Reed departed last week for Seattle. Julius Greenbaum of Chicago, after a few days' visit here, departed for Los Angeles.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1929

Business practices before the World War are obsolete and the edicts of business men's associations are enforced by the Federal Trade Commission. Steel furniture manufacturers are the latest to have their trade rules approved by the Commission. Rebates and commissions in every form are prohibited, standard prices must be adhered to, and no firm can induce a prospective customer from patronizing a competitor. Every industry is undergoing this change from free competition to standardized practices with the aid of government. And in the meantime business men insist on "less government in business." Workers, of course, are expected to continue their age-long individualistic practices. When they effectively unite, a labor injunction judge cries: "Conspiracy in restraint of trade."

Gains by organized labor can not be marked by paid-up members and per capita tax. The test is whether a trade union consciousness today is stronger than it was at any other period in the history of the American Federation of Labor. There may have been times when there was more emotion, but at no time was a knowledge of trade union philosophy and tactics more widely diffused. Even wage workers without our ranks now accept trade unionists as labor's spokesman. Our stand on high wages and short hours is accepted, as is our position on child labor and other issues. The so-called "open" shop, the company "union," welfare plans, employees' stock ownership and other forms of paternalism are better understood. Defenders of these theories are wavering before the logic of organized labor, who appeal to the reason of workers. Production, today, is featured by fact finding. Employers demand facts in connections with output and distribution. Seeking facts is a part of our industrial life, and this demand affects the lives of workers who are urged to shun the unions. The same development is seen on the political field. Workers realize the source of power is public opinion, rather than be engulfed in office seeking. The strongest political forces can be broken by an intelligent public opinion, and this the workers would create. Hence their insistent demand for agitation and education. Trade unionism marches on, despite critics and saviors. Our membership is growing and our influence expands.

LAWLESS LAW ENFORCERS

The President's law enforcement commission has appointed a sub-committee to study and report on the lawlessness of officers of the law, and at the head of the committee is a man who has established a splendid reputation for standing for the right as he sees the right. That man is William S. Kenyon, who, as a United States Senator for many years and a Judge on the Federal Bench, has plainly indicated that he is the champion of the rights of the people, and to the extent that he can influence the committee in its work we may rest assured that a thorough investigation of the subject will be made and we have no doubt that much will be uncovered calling for radical changes in the present methods of many law enforcement officers throughout the country, municipal, state and national. This is, perhaps, the greatest chance that Judge Kenyon has ever had to render real service to the people of the United States, and it is to be devoutly hoped that he has on his committee those who will be as interested in developing the facts of the present day situation as will the Judge himself, and in that event much light should be thrown on the conduct of both peace officers and Judges and the manner in which many of them abuse the power that is placed in their hands as agents of the people for law enforcement.

As an indication of some of the things that are going on that have a strong tendency to break down respect for law, a committee of the lower house of the Wisconsin Legislature has just reported that E. B. Belden, Judge of Kenosha, Racine and Walworth counties in that State, is unfit for the office he holds because he received loans from a concern that he afterward freed from tax payments. The report calls upon Belden to resign and recommends that the Bar Examiners take proper steps to disbar him from the practice of law. It was proven that Belden, in 1915, solicited and received loans aggregating $20,000 from a manufacturing concern, and that these loans were later cancelled. Belden failed to pay any of the principal and only paid interest for one year. Belden later ordered a refund of $100,000 taxes to the concern, besides aiding it in litigation.

At the present time a Federal Judge named Borah, in the city of New Orleans, has an army of United States Deputy Marshals enforcing an injunction issued by him which violates the common rights of citizens. The deputies are interfering with local officials in the performance of their duties as a part of their campaign to sustain the injunction, which was drawn up by attorneys for New York financial interests and signed by the Federal Judge mentioned in the New Orleans district, where policemen on traffic duty have been arrested by the deputies for attempting to have them observe traffic signals while riding on street cars.

Then there are the thousands of cases of crimes of all kinds, including that of murdering inoffensive citizens, by pluguglies who wear the badges of prohibition enforcement officers that have been chronicled in the public prints in all sections of the country during the past several years. So serious has this situation become that only last Sunday we saw on the streets of this city an automobile from one of the Middle Western States with a notice posted on the rear which read: "Please do not shoot; there is no liquor in this machine." Things have come to a pretty pass when it becomes necessary for law-abiding citizens to use such means in an effort to protect themselves against thugs who have been clothed with authority as officers for the enforcement of law. Only a little more than a year ago we saw about as tough a looking bunch as we ever saw wearing badges of prohibition enforcement officers enter a place and wreck property and abuse citizens without any authority of law whatever, and though we watched the papers to see if anything happened to them for so doing, we never saw a line about it except the announcement that the raid was made by prohibition officers. Surely if that sort of thing is permitted to continue no one can reasonably expect that people will for long have any respect for law or for those whose duty it is to enforce any of our laws, municipal, state or national.

There certainly is plenty of work for Judge Kenyon's committee to do, and it ought to be done in a thorough manner, so that the American people can bring about reforms that will put a stop to lawlessness on the part of law enforcement officers.

THE CHERRY TREE

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

The left wingers keep flapping their left wings and making that peculiar yapping noise by which they are identified by those who study and classify queer birds. The reds keep on being just as red, if not redder, bowing each evening toward Moscow. The habitues of the New York conference coteries keep on writing pieces to ease their turbulent feelings. Few of these queer birds can ever be cured and restored to a condition more nearly approaching the normal. The ailment is its own feeding ground. Moreover, in its processes it creates about the cranial cavity a crust for which there is no easy solvent and which, in most cases, resists attack until there comes that decay before which all flesh and bone—even the boniest of bone, gives way. Reason and facts avail little, if anything. The motion of events leaves only scorn upon lips that have tasted the narcotic delights of places foreign to those of the unexalted mob.

If reason and facts did mean anything the story might and probably would be different. It is worth remarking that in a year noted for left wing attack and bitterness and for intellectual superiority in the coteries, the American trade union movement has made a record of progress unequalled since the hectic days of what is known as the World War, for which it has become fashionable to apologize—among those who want to be fashionable. Solid trade union strength, counted in dues paying members, has gone up. Wages among organized workers have gone up, taking up with them the wages of a great mass of unorganized workers, as usual. Thousands of workers have come to know the joys of the five-day week, while other thousands have at last got away from a long work day, to enjoy a day that is of eight hours duration, or less.

Politically labor today enjoys a position dug in as it has not been dug in since Woodrow Wilson asked labor to join hands with him back in the pre-'20 years. There are many manifestations of this new strength of position, one of which is a frequency of trips by labor men to the White House that, in contrast with days not so very long gone, is as remarkable as it is wholesome, helpful and satisfactory to everyone. Surely labor men are not going to the White House so often unless they are wanted there and welcome there. To be sure, there is no labor party business on the agenda, which grieves the coteries, while it satisfies everyone else. The Wall Street Journal, which is no labor paper, for sure, makes one wise observation. It remarks that labor votes that cannot be delivered to any existing party probably could not be corralled into a new party. That is not the fundamental reason for labor's refusal to enjoy the disappointments and deficits of a Labor party, but it is at any rate a side light worth nothing.

All in all it is a bad year for the left wingers. They take the time and trouble to build for themselves intellectual platforms, even thrones from which to pour forth condemnation and advice. They predict disaster, if not destruction, and nothing happens, except that the poor patient over whom they would minister gets better and better the whole disregarding their prescriptions, their pills and panaceas. It must all seem very strange to the disciples of the left—very strange and very perverse. But after all, if that is the way things go, that is the way they go and surely they cannot be made to reverse their motion and direction just because a few disappointed, though exalted, ones need a patient on which to practice. It is not, it may be remarked, the business of labor to provide a patient upon which doctors of abstraction may practice.

WIT AT RANDOM

The average American family consists of 4.1 persons, we read, and you have one guess as to who constitutes the .1 person—Albany Knickerbocker Press.

"You are called as a witness of the quarrel between your friend and his wife. Were you present at the beginning of the trouble?"

"Certainly! I was a witness at their wedding."—Ulk (Berlin).

A young lady entered the stationery store and asked for a pound tin of floor wax.

"I'm sorry, miss," said the clerk, "all we carry is sealing-wax."

"Don't be silly," she snapped. "Who'd want to wax a ceiling?"—Boston Transcript.

Sandy was going on a visit to Glasgow, and, having reached the booking office window, he planked down a pound note on the sill and said: "Single tae Glesca!"

"Change at Stirling," said the booking-clerk, proceeding to date the ticket. Sandy shook his head determinedly.

"Na, na, ma mannie," he said. "I'll just tak' ma change here, I wull."

The doctor had returned home late.

"Poor darling," he said, as he kissed his wife. "You must have been lonely."

"Not at all, dear. I'm organizing cooking classes for the women who live round here."

"Really?" said her husband. "And what do you do with the things you cook?"

"Oh, we send them to our various neighbors."

The doctor kissed her again.

"Dear little woman," he said. "Always thinking of your husband's practice."

There is a movement on foot to supplant the old-fashioned Pullman waiters with chic and pretty waitresses. You see, when the train lurches, some of the patrons would prefer to find something in their laps more attractive than a plate of soup.—Boston Herald.

H. Herman Westinghouse, chairman of the Board of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, as well as the Canadian company, and head of some of the foreign Westinghouse Air Brake companies, has a fine farm across the Hudson in New York State. When New York City disposed of the last lot of its fire engine horses he bought a pair for his farm. They were hitched up to a manure spreader in a field when the village fire bell sounded. Off the team started on a run. As the spreader turned into the main road the driver was thrown out and the manure was spread all of the way to the fire.—Forbes Magazine.

A certain mother reproved her young son for always coming to her for his spending money. "Willie, dear, why don't you earn some money yourself?" she said.

The same afternoon, the mother, looking out the window, saw Willie surrounded by a group of boys all having a grand time, judging by the whooping and yelling going on. Out of curiosity she went over and saw tacked on a tree, under which her son was busily engaged, the following sign:

"Willie Beasely will eat: 1 small worm for 1 cent; 1 large worm for 2 cents; 1 butterfly for 3 cents; 1 caterpillar for 3 cents; 1 hoptoad for 5 cents."

Willie's mother heard quite a little money jangling in her son's pockets as she led him home for further advice.—Forbes Magazine.

LABOR QUERIES.

Questions and Answers on Labor: What it Has Done; Where It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program; Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers. Etc., Etc.

Q.—Did the American Federation of Labor ever endorse the Shipstead anti-injunction bill?

A.—No. The Shipstead bill was drafted after the Los Angeles convention had laid down a principle and the succeeding New Orleans convention followed precedent in giving endorsement to no specific language to be embodied in a legislative enactment.

Q.—When and where will the American Federation of Labor meet this year?

A.—Toronto, October 7.

Q.—Have the street car men, striking in New Orleans, called for help from the movement?

A.—No. There has been no general call for assistance, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees having thus far taken full charge of necessary relief work.

Q.—Are American seamen covered by a workers' compensation act?

A.—No. They must sue for damages in the courts in an effort to get compensation for injuries.

Q.—What state first attempted to provide old-age pensions?

A.—Arizona, whose 1914 legislature passed an act abolishing alms-houses and establishing old-age and mothers' pensions. The act was declared void by the State Supreme Court.

A "Home Town" University...

That is virtually what is offered in the University of California Extension Division—a college in every town.

Whenever fifteen or more persons at any one place in this state indicate their interest in a certain subject, the Extension Division will organize a class and give a course in that subject. There is only a nominal registration fee.

Since most of the classes meet in the evening, it places within the reach of everyone the opportunity for greater advancement in both mental and material attainments. The San Francisco groups meet at 540 Powell Street.

Brief Items of Interest

The following members of San Francisco unions have died during the past week: John Engler of the sheet metal workers, Gustave Buch of the ornamental plasterers, Gus B. Thompson of the structural iron workers, Malcolm Chase of the longshoremen, Gustave Spindler of the bakers, Frank J. Foley of the upholsterers, Jane Mahoney of the waitresses, Edgar F. Page of the molders, Thomas Allen of the teamsters.

John S. Horn, former secretary of the Los Angeles Labor Council and until recently a member of the Board of Public Works of that city, paid San Francisco a visit the latter part of last week. He was accompanied by his wife and expects to spend a short vacation in Yosemite Valley. He has not yet determined what he will do, but expects to enter into business some time this fall. He has several propositions under consideration.

Rae Last, general organizer for the Barbers' Union on the Pacific Coast, has started on his way East to attend the convention of his organization. He will go over the southern route and do some work in Texas before reaching Indianapolis early in September. Roe Baker is also ready to start for the convention city in his capacity of first vice-president of the International Union.

The Kansas City Labor Herald, in discussing the convention of the Culinary Workers, held there last week, has this to say: "The delegates from the Pacific Coast cannot register any complaint about the brand of weather that has been provided this week. The weather clerk provided a genuine 'show me' brand of his goods, making the outing portion of the entertainment particularly enjoyable." The delegates are now on their way back home.

The local Stationary Firemen's Union last Tuesday night adopted resolutions of condolence to be forwarded to the family of C. L. Shamp, secretary of the International Union, who died at his home in Omaha, Neb., early last week. He had been secretary for more than thirty years and visited California about a year ago in the hope of regaining his health, but his ailment had made so much progress that it could not be retarded and he returned to his home about six months ago.

Minneapolis is ready for the convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers, which opens in that city next Monday morning with a big parade in which there will be twenty-five bands. Twenty-seven locals were added to the list during the past year and the organization is prosperous.

FREE SPEAKING CLASSES.

A course in public speaking under the auspices of the Community Chest of San Francisco is offered to all men and women who will serve as volunteer speakers for the Community Chest. Through the courtesy of the San Francisco Center of the California League of Women Voters, the clinic will hold its weekly meetings at the St. Francis Hotel. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, September 4, at 4 p.m. Evening groups will be arranged if necessary.

Mrs. John J. Cuddy, formerly of the faculty of the San Francisco State Teachers' College, and Mrs. Mabel Farrington Gifford, chief of the State Bureau of Speech Defects and Disorders, will be in charge of the clinic.

Speakers will be assigned to small groups and will assemble occasionally for lectures on the technique of voice placement and on the art of public speaking.

Group instruction will be given by teachers of public speaking from local educational institutions who are volunteering their services as their contribution to the success of the clinic. Among those who have already agreed to serve as group leaders are Mrs. Laura Tharp, instructor in drama at Girls' High School; Miss Alice V. Donaldson, instructor in drama at Mission High School; Miss Molly Corry, instructor in drama at Oakland Technical High School; Miss Raymond Moyen, instructor at Everett Junior High School, and Miss Florence N. Smith, instructor in debating at Mission High School.

All who wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity are asked to enroll immediately by communicating with Mr. Randall Larson, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, at the Community Chest, 20 Second street, D'Douglas 9160, or the San Francisco Center, D'Douglas 0617.

COSTLY WOMEN'S GOWNS.

"It would surprise many society matrons to know that some of their expensive gowns are made in tenement house kitchens on Sunday," declared a report on sweatshop conditions in the dress-making industry that has been prepared by officers of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Thousands of $18-a-week custom dressmakers are making gowns for society and the stage ranging in price from $250 to $25,000 under sweatshop conditions, it was stated.

"Hours and wages have gone by the board and we have the terrible spectacle of experienced dressmakers, many with 10 years and more experience, eking out $18 to $22 a week making gowns that are the envy of womanhood the world over."

Actors' Equity Association, which includes all the prominent actresses on the spoken stage, and is a unit of the American Federation of Labor, promises to aid this war on sweatshops. The Women's Trade Union League and many society women have taken the same position.

Two men thrown together at a horse show were discussing their adventures with the equine tribe.

"A horse ran away with me once, and I wasn't out for two months," remarked one.

"That's nothing!" replied the other. "I ran away with a horse once, and I wasn't out for two years."
